GEORGIA CONGRESSMEN GINGREY AND PRICE VISIT CHESLEY BROWN'S NEW CORPORATE COMMAND CENTER

ATLANTA, GA (June 20, 2006)- Chesley Brown International, Inc., a renowned leader in the security management industry, had visits by Georgia Congressman Phil Gingrey and Tom Price. Both toured Chesley Brown's international headquarters with special interest in the Corporate Command Center and Chesley Brown's newest security solution, InCommand.

They both were impressed with their tours and the Command Center's capability to serve as a 24-hour monitoring center of major world events and weather services for Chesley Brown clients as well as the technology through InCommand to provide remote monitoring. This unique service integrates advanced technology with existing or new camera systems, allowing highly trained officers to monitor clients' properties around the world from Chesley Brown's Corporate Command Center in Atlanta.

Congressman Tom Price (right) listens to Brent Brown, President/CEO of Chesley Brown International, as he discusses the capabilities of the Corporate Command Center.
